

NADIA LATHAN

Berkeley, CA 🏠
(951) 445-5407 📞
nadalathan@berkeley.edu ✉️
nadalathan.github.io 🌐

ABOUT ME

Freelance reporter and first-year UC Berkeley journalism graduate student with a track record of well-sourced stories about city design and transportation. My goal as a reporter is to use data to uncover issues related to pedestrian and bicycle infrastructure.

EDUCATION

Master of Journalism, Journalism | University of California, Berkeley

AUGUST 2022 – MAY 2024

Concentration in narrative writing. Covering the intersection of urban design and public health.

Bachelor of Arts, International Relations & Economics | University of Redlands

SEPTEMBER 2018 – MAY 2022

Graduated magna cum laude with honors.

EXPERIENCE

Public Health & Science Writer | UC Berkeley School of Public Health

AUGUST 2022 – PRESENT

- Report, write, and edit news stories about research conducted by faculty and alumni of Berkeley Public Health
- Produce 250 to 600+ word research briefs or features weekly
- Cover healthcare disparities and inequitable access

Editor in Chief | The Redlands Bulldog

JANUARY 2022 – MAY 2022

- Published all editorial content and managed a staff of 6-8 reporters and photographers
- Embedded UX improvements to five-year-old website using WordPress CMS
- Edited, assigned and wrote stories for news, culture, opinion, and sports sections weekly

News Section Editor + Reporter | The Redlands Bulldog

SEPTEMBER 2018 – AUGUST 2022

- Covered stories on COVID-19, administrative changes, and campus events
- Edited and assigned about three stories per week for staff of 6-8 reporters

SKILLS

- AP Style
- HTML (basic)
- CSS (basic)
- WordPress CMS
- Google Sheets/Microsoft Excel (basic)
- Writing + Researching + Interviewing